

Corollary. If two rows (columns) of a determinant are identical, the determinant is zero.

$$D = -D \Rightarrow D = 0,$$

from interchanging two identical rows (columns).

Theorem 3. If every element in any row (column) of a determinant is multiplied by the same factor, the whole determinant is multiplied by that factor.